MRS. NANCY JOKERST

Once in a great while, there comes along someone who is dedicated, thoughtful and caring. Mrs. Nancy Jokerst is one of those people. For more than a decade she has been the college and career counselor. In that time, she has cured many headaches, worries, and uncertainties by her counseling and friendship. Numerous fine young men have her to thank for their success.

This year we would like to honor and thank Nancy for her help and support. We are pleased to dedicate our 1986-1987 yearbook to Mrs. Nancy Jokerst. We love you, Nance.

"LIFE AND HOW TO LIVE IT"

It doesn't matter what you wear as long as you are there

So c'mon, every guy grab a girl
Everywhere around the world
There'll be dancing in the street

- Bowie and Jagger

Well, we were dancing in the halls and in the parking lot to be sure. Some danced on top of desks, then danced to Tam's office. A few did the Latin Hustle on the roof, and just a few slammed on Treat. Everybody danced in the De La Salle quad, and in the Carondelet gym. Wherever they danced, and however they did it, the message was the same: 1987 was a great year. From prehistoric times, through the twentieth century — and even through the dark days of disco — dancing has been an expression of joy. Certainly, as recorded in these following pages, we had a lot to be joyous about.

-Big Country

There is a profound difference between being alive and living. Being alive is an involuntary state of existence. Living is an art. There is a combination of privilege and obligation, challenge and success, risk and excitement. Living is savoring life: dealing with its bad times, and seizing the good times. Though it can be recorded in books and pictures, to live one must experience life.

The Junior ring ceremony is indeed a memorable experience in the lives of the DLS Juniors. It is a day of new beginnings and a day of reflection. It is not only a day when the Juniors receive their class rings, but a day when they receive symbols of pride, responsibility, freedom, and achievement. Truly, Spartans can be proud of their rings and all they represent.

The Blood Drive is not a social event. It is not fun, nor profitable — though free T-shirts are given out — nor physically rewarding. Why then do so many people go to the Carondelet Library twice a year to give blood? It is because when people give blood, they are giving life. It is an opportunity to do something wholly unselfish; an opportunity to make a sacrifice, knowing the blood and pain are going towards a greater cause.

Campus Ministry did not stand still in 86-87. Maintaining its tradition of charity and community, the Campus Ministry Program included the coordination of retreats, organizing liturgies, and the two major fundraisers; the Christmas Toy Drive and the Basketball Marathon. This year, for the first time, a special Hunger Awareness Program at Thanksgiving focused on the needy in the Bay Area in a new and personal way.

For all the work Campus Ministry performed, there was always time for simple friendship. The office was always available for friends to talk, or just listen to music. Established this year was the first Campus Ministry homeroom, consisting of participants on the LIFE retreat, a special group who were able to share themselves and their faith in the close and open environment of a retreat.

Comfortable in his second year as Campus Ministry moderator, Pete Kelley was able to inspire the Campus Ministry team to new heights of spirit and love.

The Rally ended with a bonfire in Owen Field, while the cheerleaders did more cheers.

a sort of homecoming

This year's Homecoming was another smash success. For the first time, we had a live band (Modern Art). All who came had a good time, and the Homecoming Court once again represented the philosophy and values of De La Salle. A pleasant new addition was the floats. With the theme "Take A Walk on the Wild Side", the classes devised artistic and creative floats that were an enjoyable addition to the Homecoming concept. "the freaks come out at night."

The moonlight encroaches darkness into the far reaches of the corridors. The resulting shadows reveal a figure of great stature and presence. Being brave, you turn to confront the beast. Eeeeek! Face to face with a walking, talking generic beer can. It's gone astray from the rest of the six-pack at the Senior Halloween party. Where else could this happen, but De La Salle? Only the Spartans have such awesome spirit. Clowns, monsters, raisins, flashers, trash bags, . . . and even a life-size Lipton tea bag get down on the dance floor. All pride and shame go out the door in the name of a good time at Halloween. It's a time when every individual gets involved and becomes somebody or something they are not. Some of these characters are personified in a variety of different manners, utilizing some bizarre props. "Why be normal?" is a common response when the De La Salle students are asked why they go to such great lengths for their costumes. Best of all, everybody has a blast. As the song goes, "The freaks come out at night."

In a land far, far away, in a time zone quite different from our own, lies the DLS parking lot. The people, places, music and faces all make the parking lot a special part of the DLS lifestyle. In a place where we find Ford "Fairlanes," Mercedes "500SEL's," and a menagerie of Volkswagens, we also find a wide variety of people and friends all significant to DLS.

The hub of life and activity at DLS, the parking lot is the site for tail-gate parties, weenie roasts, the Fall Festival, and is a haven for anyone running from the wrath of "Tam."

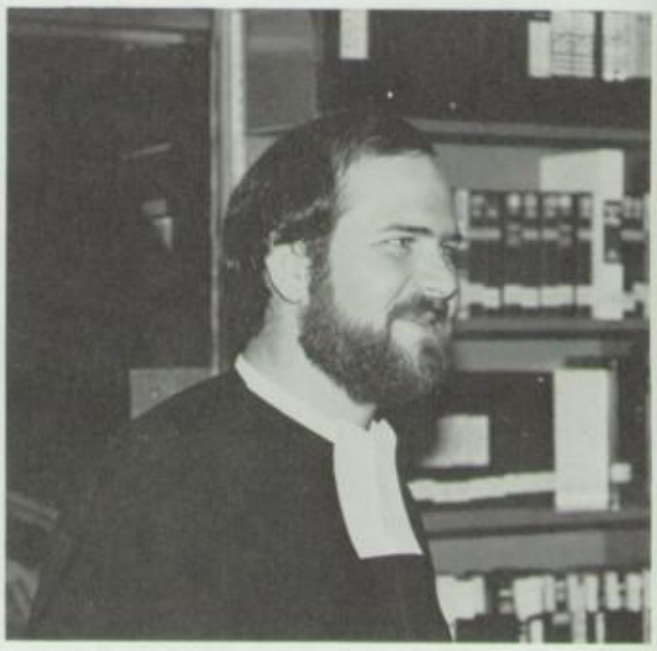
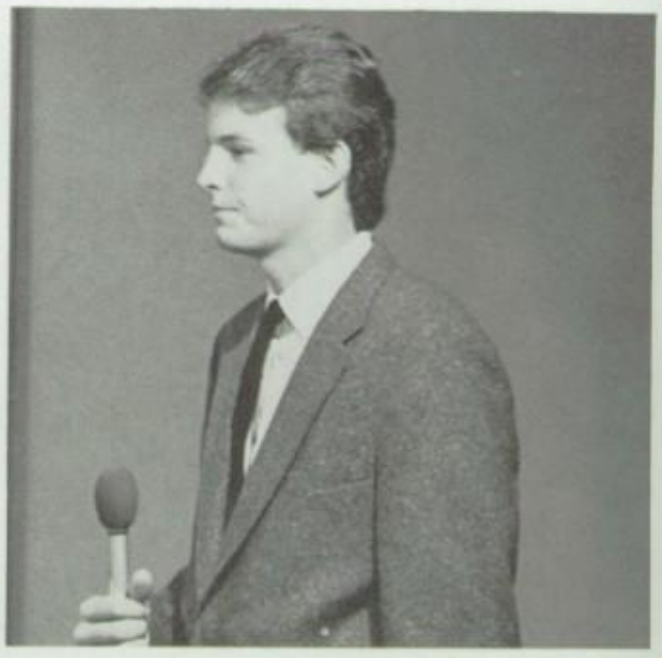
Congressman George Miller telling it like it is.

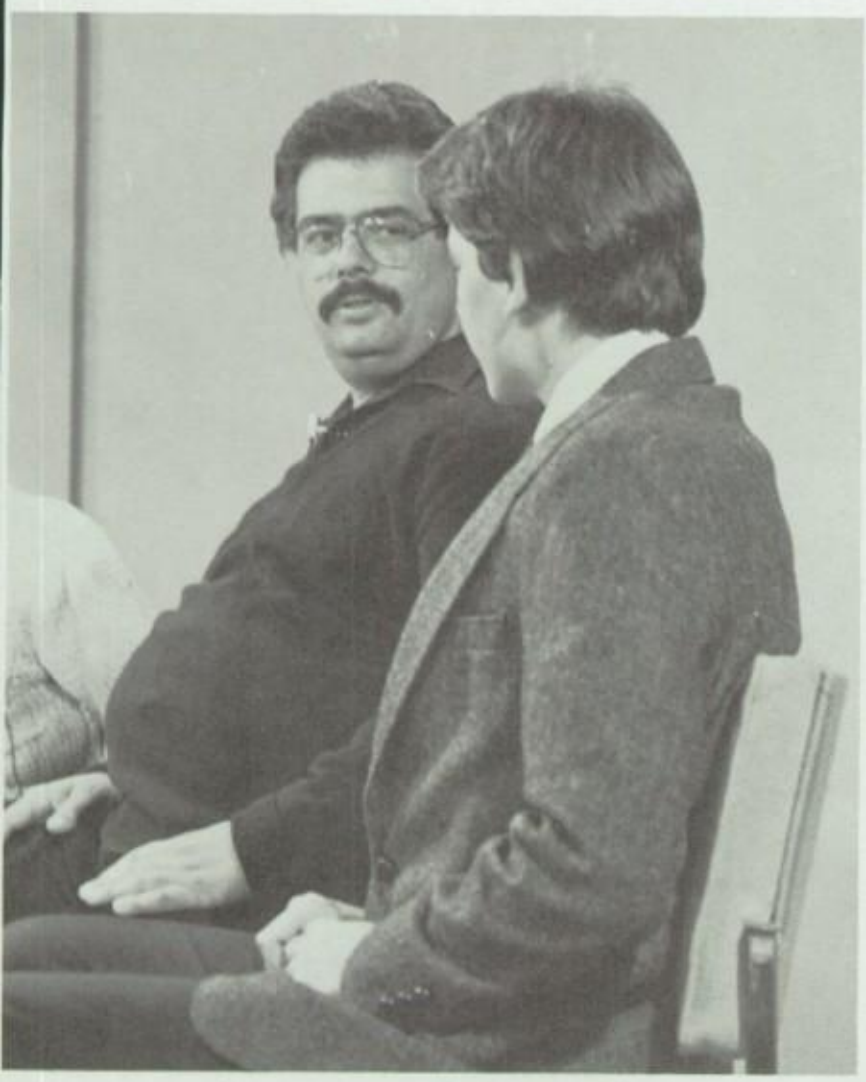
A Brotherus Clarenceus in its natural habitat.



Dr. Dan: "Today Target, tomorrow the world."



It's been a long . . . day



It's time to get a handle on things.

"TARGET — The Information Show" has an eight year history at De La Salle. Originally, the show was broadcast only by U.A. Cable in Walnut Creek, but this year Target boasts a weekly broadcast schedule that includes six Bay Area cable systems, several of which broadcast the show twice a week. Target owes much of its success to the hard work and dedication of Brother Clarence Schenk, its producer. Brother Clarence spends a great deal of time choosing topics and guests for the weekly interview show, and guiding its cast and crew through the production of the program.

"TARGET" interviews a variety of distinguished guests, including Congressmen, priests, war veterans, authors, T.V. personalities, and more.

The Crew is made up of both Carondelet and De La Salle students, who are members of a television production class at De La Salle. Part of their learning experience is the excellent hands-on training they get by working on the show. On the other side of the cameras are the hosts, who are responsible for preparing questions, interviewing the guests, and encouraging participation from the audience. These hosts are Tom Chapman, Sean Anderson, and Courtney Kermeen — the first Carondelet student to hold this position. All are year-long commitments.

Activities and socializing at Carondelet are just as big a part of Spartan life as activities and socializing on the De La Salle campus. From the very first day of the Freshman year, the very first look at "those girls in plaid skirts," to the last day of Senior year, when those skirts are exchanged for graduation gowns, Carnondelet has been a magnetic force. Every day, from 11:40 to 12:40, hundreds of Spartans make the pilgrimage to our sister school. And when CHS holds one of its famous and unique lunch-time concerts, nearly all the Spartans and Cougars become one student body.

MRS. KOCH

I think looking ahead is much more interesting than looking back, but a quick look —

I was raised in a military family and moved often. In many new towns, books were my first friends. I graduated from high school in San Diego where I was active in campus life, and later graduated from UCLA.

I have always loved young people and books, so teaching is the perfect career! I have a masters degree in reading, and I occasionally teach in the School of Education at Saint Mary's College.

My hobbies (summer only!) are stamp collecting, painting, collecting antiques, and riding my bike.

It is a joy to teach at DLS — interesting classes and great kids. My goal is to help each student be the best they can be, and read a few good books, and write a few clear papers, along the way.

Wild Boys never lose it, Wild Boys never chose this way
Wild Boys never close their eyes, Wild Boys always SHINE

-Duran Duran

When you think about it, this year's Senior class will be the only one from De La Salle ever to graduate in 1987. Realizing this, the 87 Class Council set out to make their year the best possible. Fred Shahid, our brave and valiant leader, organized us, bossed us around, got everybody dancing, and amazed us all with his now-famous Lonely Potato imitation. Sean Cooper, our Vice President, did what Vice Presidents do best. Victor Nigro, breaking the tradition of secretaries and treasurers, neither went on long lunch breaks, nor was he indicted for embezzlement. 1987 was truly a great year under their leadership.

student council

With pride and Spirit, the De La Salle Student Council, with guidance and support from Doug Emeldi, worked to make the 1986-1987 school year fun and exciting for the whole Student Body. Because of the hard work and dedication from Chris Steeb, All Student Body (ASB) Social Chairman, we had some of the best, and most enjoyable rallies and assemblies ever. Ken Pentemonti, ASB Secretary/Treasurer, kept the Student Body abreast of all weekly activities and upcoming events with the Student Council bulletin board outside the Media Center. The various joint activities done with Carondelet such as Homecoming, Junior Prom, and the Senior Ball were very successful. Led by Pat Lofy, ASB President, and Paul Still, ASB Vice-President, our dedicated and responsible student leaders showed that Spartan pride and school involvement are the keys toward a terrific and rewarding year.

national honor society

The National Honor Society was designed to honor outstanding students. To be eligible for membership, students must be in the top 15% of their class, must be involved in community and extracurricular activities, and each candidate must submit a character reference from a member of the faculty. After these criteria have been satisfied, the remaining candidates are evaluated by a panel of teachers to determine the most qualified individuals for this society.

Members of the National Honor Society are honored greatly. The greatest honor is received at the initiation ceremony, where new members are welcomed into the group and given a certificate verifying their status. Once they become a part of this elite congregation, they are eligible for many different scholarships upon graduation.

The concept of publishing a newspaper at De La Salle High School has existed for a long time. The previous newspaper failed approximately five years ago. However, due to popular demand, the De La Salle newspaper committee launched a new offensive and agenda for the 1986-87 year. The new committee consists of a diverse group of individuals representing a cross-section of the entire student body. Led by editors Sean Anderson and Csaba Linsky, the future of the De La Salle newspaper looks promising.

The newly formed Speech and Debate Society of De La Salle got off to a great start this year. Led by Brother Cecil Duncan and assisted by Mr. Al Amador and Mr. Falco, they began what is sure to become a winning team. Coached and taught in speaking, research, and rhetoric techniques, these individuals slowly became an organized, interdependent team, formidable in any speech competition. They started out the season by defeating Carondelet in a Lawrence Hall of Science sponsored competition and continued on to bigger and better things.

This club, even though it is brand new, has already established itself among the De La Salle community as a prominent addition to a fine collection of clubs and societies. They are looking forward to competing in local and regional competitions, pitting themselves against the best (the best until now, that is). They take a fresh approach to their presentations with unconventional uses of techniques to acquire and keep their audience's attention. They have what seems to be the winning combination of intelligence, guile, ingenuity, and resources, and look to be expanding De La Salle's sphere of dominance over competitions of a more cerebral type.

The 1986-87 De La Salle Rally Club has been instrumental in promoting spirit for the mighty Spartans. The club started off the year with a wonderfully exciting Welcome Rally. Tehey were able to pull off a very spirited rally for the students of DLS and CHS. The rally consisted of air bands, class competitions and various skits. Then came Homecoming. The spectacle of the night was the slide show followed by the roaring blaze of a bonfire. Many, many hours were put into the planning, set up, and performing of these rallies. Many thanks to all those who helped this year's rallies to be so successful!

This year's drama, Appointment with Death, a chilling story about an old, protective mother who thrived on controlling her family, was presented to a full house on all three performing nights. The play, written by Agatha Christie, was performed by a group of devoted and extremely talented students. This breed of people, known commonly as "company", worked many after-school and lunch hours practicing everything from lines to make up. Director Patti Strauch, with Assistant Julie Carraher and Stage Manager Chris Burke, transformed these students into actors, organizers, and crew heads in a matter of weeks. This unified clan worked together as a team to create a production that was nothing less than awesome.

Damn Yankees was yet another one of the fine musical productions brought to you by the DLS and CHS Company. Based on the novel The Year the Yankees Lost the Pennant, by Douglas Wallop. Damn Yankees revolves around Joe Boyd, an avid middle-aged fan of the Washington Senators. He agrees to sell his soul to the devil to become Joe Hardy, an All-Star baseball player. Pandemonium results when Joe has to pay the price of stardom, but does he?

This production involved many, many hours of rehearsal and learning our lines. But eventually we got the "feel" for the play and its characters. At that moment, it becomes something we are, instead of something we do.

As a noted actor once said, "What you put into a production is what you get out of it." The late hours and frustrating moments paid off as we bright magic to the theatre. Although during the practices, we didn't have our minds on that magic, but when we saw a full house of people thoroughly enjoying themselves, it all became worthwhile.

The portrait of a winning team

dls company, inc.

Company of De La Salle and Carondelet offers students the opportunity to express their talents in the area of the performing arts. Through the process of auditions, rehearsals, and performances, students learn theatre first hand in a professional manner.

Company produces three shows a year which include a fall drama, winter musical, and spring comedy. However, acting is only one of many aspects of the performing arts which company provides. Whether a student is an actor, make-up artist, lighting designer, or stage manager, each student is recognized for his or her talents, and the applause that fills our little theatre adds to the accomplishment.

Working on a show takes a lot of time after school, saturdays, and evenings. Because of this, company is also responsible for the bond of many close friendships. People become very close while working many hours to produce the magic projected to the audience.

Thanks to Patti Strauch, Brother Celestine, Jeff Johnson, and Elaine Gallero for giving students a chance to perfect their talents, and help develop and refine talent the students never knew they had. Company provides an education, a bond of friendships, and a fun experience for all. Thanx Company.

intramurals

The Freshbeats, the Calculaties, the Halley's Comets, the Brewmasters. A list of successful businessmen, right? No, these were just a few of the varied and colorful names that our intramural teams assumed. After a three year lapse, the 1986-87 year was a revival in the lunch time sports.

The intramural sports included volleyball, 5 on 5 basketball, and indoor soccer. Steve Coccimiglio organized the games. They were played during lunch and consisted of a regular and a special championship season.

Intramural sports, said Coach Coccimiglio, were started to give students who could not compete in the ususal after school teams, the chance to actively participate in sports. All students are eligible to join in. The student body's support of these games was exemplified by the 125 players of 5 on 5 basketball alone.

wilderness society

For the more rugged students at DLS and CHS, there is the Wilderness Expedition Society. This club plans several adventures into the wild backcountry of our nation. Destinations include such exotic locales as The Grand Canyon, Hertz Gulch and Mr. Shasta. Activities on the outings are varied. They include kissing banana slugs in the California Redwoods to dodging attacks by vicious jumping cacti in the blazing heat of the Mojave Desert. It is not for the weak-hearted, rather it is for adventuresome individuals who are unafraid to face the challenges of the unknown. Members of this society bring home memories they will treasure for a lifetime.

The Strat-O-Matic club is interesting. It combines the Christian attitude and competitive spirit upon which De La Salle thrives. The club's new moderator, Bob Sansoe, is at the heart of the group. The students must combine mathematical averages with a manager's intuition in order to achieve success. These games re-create the previous baseball season, with data cards being substituted for players. These "players" perform realistically, according to how they have done previously in their careers. A 162 game schedule is installed, which the managers follow religiously. Strat-O-Matic is a way of life.

I know he's changing those numbers.

A strat-o player exihibits mind over matter.

"We're on a road to nowhere, come along.
Taking that ride to nowhere, we'll take that ride"

-Talking Heads

Sometimes for the Bicycling Club, the road didn't seem to be leading anywhere. Nevertheless, they persisted, giving the extra effort to go the extra mile. The weekend rides were a constant source of challenge to them, and they met the challenge head-on and overcome it. Ten speeds, mountain bikes, and many other types of bicycles could be seen in parade as they went on their merry way, struggling to get to their planned destination. No one can deny that these people worked hard to keep organized and to keep their bodies and bicycles in top shape to be able to take on steep hill, flatlands, curves, and dirt roads.

Bicycling is a sport that requires strength, endurance, and dedication. The Bicycling Club exemplified all of these qualities and put them together to make a success of their organization. They may not be Olympic riders (yet), but don't be surprised if you see their names one day under the winner of the Tour de France, or perhaps the RAAM.

Who let the air out of my tires?!

Are we going to be riding pretty soon?

You think I'm going to ride 28 miles!

A fearless group of riders.

Sr. Cheryl hands out the sign-up sheet.

ski club

The De La Salle Ski Club involved more people than any other club on campus. This past year, there were about 110 members, in addition to Nancy Jokerst and Beth Cornett, the moderators who worked to keep this lively group organized.

The resorts they travelled to included Bear Valley, Sugar Bowl, Alpine Meadows, Heavenly Valley, and Squaw Valley. Even though the snow was not as good as it has been in the past years, that didn't stop this tough bunch from getting to De La Salle at 4:00 a.m. approximately once a month, to do what they enjoy most.

parents association

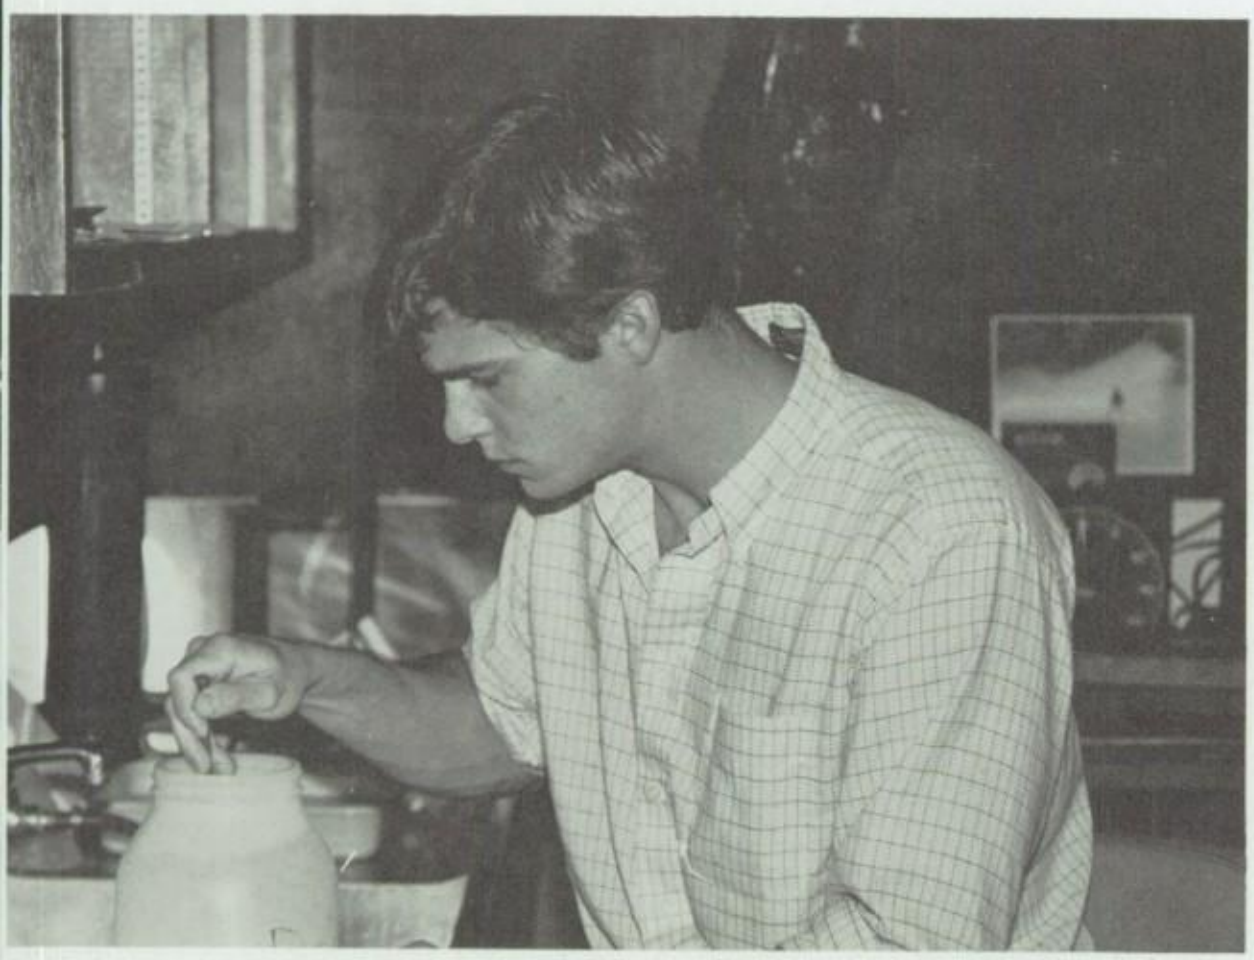
The Parent's Association and the Alumni Association are two of the Quiet Pillars of the De La Salle Community. Communication between these organizations and the student body is maintained through the De La Salle Union newsletter. Some of the activities these groups support are the Fall Festival, which has become as much a part of De La Salle as Homecoming, the games and proms, Casino Night, and the DLS 200 fund-raisers. These two groups, the Student Body and Faculty, form the foundation that De La Salle is built on.

There's always so much to do on this job.

You mean they're supposed to give me money?!

Just clowning around.

We can only smile for so long.



WAIT! This isn't coffee!

alumni association

Due largely to the support of the Parent's Association and the Alumni Association, we are enjoying the use of a new football field, and soon will have a new pool and extra classroom space. The Spartan Spirit, as always, is strongly supported by the generosity of our booster groups! It is not merely a matter of financial donations, but donations of time and energy. These organizations are genuinely concerned for the school, and work for our well being. So we wish to extend our gratitude to all of the members of these groups who help to make De La Salle better for our entire community. We wouldn't be where we are today without them, and because we have their help, the Spartan aura keeps expanding!

This is how to relax and watch a game.

Jason ear your heart out!

"I don't know about you but I'm thrilled."

Csaba Linszky, Junior Council Representative, was quoted at the beginning of the year as saying, "We are very excited about this year's activities." Csaba's optimism was not without reason. Live highlights of the year included: the Junior Ring Ceremony, the Junior Prom, the Junior Movie Night, and the very successful Junior Class sponsored dance.

Secretary/Treasurer Rob Forestrer kept the class in the black, and up to date on the activities being planned. Vice-President Griff Joyce held down the fort in the President's absence, as well as working hard on the Junior Prom and other events. Jim King led them all, organizing meetings, and overseeing planning and working on activities.

Being a Junior means more than being in the 11th grade, the once-innocent sophomores become the almighty Upperclassmen. (They also get their upper lockers, finally!) Many of the Juniors will have received their class rings, varsity letters, and DRIVERS LICENSES! No longer will mom have to drop them off at school.

Becoming a Juniors means more than having more freedom and honors. This is the year that they will have to start looking at colleges and making moves towards career choices. The Juniors start to give advice to the poor lowerclassmen who are going through the same problems that they went through a year ago.

Junior year is the year that relationships become the strongest, where these young men grow and become more responsible. But that doesn't mean they can't have lot's of fun at the same time!

The Junior year is the one where people change, yet stay the same. It is the year we decide to look at people for what they are and not what they aren't. We decide that we would like to get to know people outside of our normal circle of friends, but for some reason it isn't the year when we get around to it. All of us have seriously thought about where we would like to go to college and why, but few of us base our decisions on much more than the climate. It seems okay, though because there's always next year. Now it's time to remember that our "next years" have run out.

behind the scenes

Keeping students going through the miracles of six meals is what the cafeteria staff is all about. From 7:45 in the morning to 1:50 in the afternoon, these dedicated ladies meet each customer with a friendly greeting, waiting to take their order. Most people will agree that their contribution is invaluable. Janitorial staff members are among those who can say, "It's a dirty job, but somebody has to do it." They have the job of keeping the De la Salle campus clean, including every desk of every classroom, all the wings, and the cafe. Keeping things in working order is the never-ending job of our maintenance crews. Doing everything from fixing desks to plugging leaks in the roof, our staff keeps this school in top shape. If we were to call DLS a well-run machine, it would be because maintenance works day and night to keep it that way. All of these dedicated people play a special part in making DLS a school that we are proud to be a part of. The hours they put in are a priceless part in making things run smoothly.

Like, omigahd, what decade is it?

It was in the year of 1986-87 that the Class of 1989 got their first real taste of high school life. Grades became important. Dates became frequent. That precious ticket of freedom, the DRIVER'S LICENSE, opened up a whole new world to most of the Class.

With all this change, 86-87 might have been a nightmare for the Sophs. Fortunarely, vererans like President Matt Wachowicz and Vice-President Christ Knaflec, and newcomer Jeff Glanville, were there to plan events like the Soph-Hop - First "big date?", Soph sponsored Dance, and holiday parties. The Sophomore Class Council helped to make the 86-87 the great year it was meant to be!

This year's Spartans rolled through a formidable schedule with an unblemished record of 12-0. Among those who fell to the Spartans were CCS 4A champions Bellarmine and NCS 2A champs Campolindo. With four victories under their belt, the Spartans exploded into league play with a 62-16 thrashing of El Cerrito. They wrought havoc on the newly formed Golden Bay Athletic League outscoring their opponents 269-84. The Spartans continued their domination in the playoffs, crushing Eureka 56-7, and overpowering a rough Clayton Valley squad 24-6. In the NCS 3A final in the Oakland Coliseum, the Spartans pulverized the previously undefeated Monte Vista team 24-7. Amid much cheering, the Spartans were crowned NCS champions for the fourth time in five years. The Spartans featured a high-powered offense which was complimented by a hard-hitting defense. Coach Ladouceur called the plays and the offense was under the leadership of quarterback Chris O'Rourke. With Greg Pron as running back, DLS amassed over 500 points in their 12 game season. Coach Wurzel guided one of the best defensive backfields ever assembled in the Bay Area. The "No Passing Zone", led by Seniors Tuan Van Le and Mike Gibson, accumulated an astonishing 29 interceptions. Coach Edison's Special Teams provided DLS with advantages unparalleled by other teams.

-Tears For Fears

Though everybody wants to rule the world, there are only a very few people who have the potential to do so. The JV Football team showed they have the potential to carry on the DLS winning streak well past 33 games. Known as The Guys With The Ties because of their tradition of wearing ties on game days rather than jerseies, this team was led by Mike Allio, offensive captain, Chris Corcoran, defensive captain, and Brian Smith, tri captain to a GBAL Championship. The two major setbacks the JV team encountered only strengthened their determination; an early loss against Bellermine, and Mike Kampfen's head injury. Kampfen's courage was an inspiration to all as the Junior Spartans gave California a look at what is to come.

The Kids Of The Future

Once again, the DLS football teams have flexed their muscles. While both the Varsity and Junior Varsity teams had excellent seasons, the Freshmen team did too, quietly compiling a record of six wins and no losses.

Grueling practices, great instruction and coaching, and above all, the teamwork and unity of all players and coaches really payed off. The offense was unstroppable, averaging forty-one points per game. The best offensive game was against Alameda, 78-0. The defense was unbreakable, allowing a stingy average of two points per game. The defense demolished St. Mary's extremely tough offense, 27-8.

Many thanks to the coaches. With all their help, future Varsity and Junior Varsity teams will continue the DLS football tradition. Watch out GOAL!

They were under a lot of pressure. It was the first sport of the season, and the first season of the sport. They would be competing against well established teams, some nationally ranked, some eager to show up the Spartan team in order to avenge defeats in other sports. Most importantly, this new team would be representing a school that could hardly remember having a team that did not go on to championship play. This new team proved itself in a way that frustrated its critics. Though the Aqua Spartans did not bring back a trophy, they brought back respect. A trophy or a title can be lost the next year, but their spirit and dignity will last forever.

What a beginning it was! The Junior Varsity Water Polo team became history in the making as this sport made its debute at De La Salle. Coached by Brother Mark and Perry Kelly, this predominantly frosh team tallied a 6-2 record in tournament play, and a 4-4 record in GBAL league play. With this much experience under their belt, it is fair to say that the water polo team is one to be watched in De La Salle's future. Team members included: Brian Holm, Ryan Huxley, Craig Mercer, Dustin Pearce, Steve Williamson, Wilfredo Zuniga, Matt Phelps, Todd Smithey, Roger Becker, Marc Beckford, Matt Lopas, and Joe Mendes.

The 1986 Cross Country season brought about many challenges for the Varsity squad. Upon entrance into a tough new league, the team, led by a pack of returning Seniors, faced their competition with skill and tenacity. They were faced with grueling workouts, fit only for the strongest. There was definitely no mountain high enough, and no road so long that the Spartan squad could not complete.

Unfortunately, the team was plagued with injuries half way through the season, and was unable to compete in Los Angeles in the Mt. Sac Invitational. Yet, despite this minor setback, Junior and Sophomore runners were eager to lend a helpful stride, and the team looked on to a goal of becoming the first De La Salle GBAL Cross Country Champions. Led by the dedication and enthusiasm of Coach Joe Stocking, the Varsity Spartan runners put forth their best efforts, and continued their traditional pursuit of excellence! Imua! Enjoy!

In Classical times, the Persian Empire sent a powerful army to invade Greece. The Spartans and the Athenians assembled a brave but badly outnumbered force, and pitched a battle on the plain of Marathon. The Greeks fought so fiercely that the Persian morale was crushed along with their army, and the soldiers were driven back to their ships.

The Greeks feared that the enemy would sail to Athens. If the city thought their army had been defeated, they would surrender to the Persian fleet. Pheidippides, who had just run 150 miles from Sparta to Marathon, was sent to warn the city. After running 26 miles, the Spartan runner cried out, "Rejoice, we have conquered!" and fell dead to the ground.

The Junior Varsity Cross Country Team is continuing the great tradition of the Spartan runners. They are strong, fast, and dedicated. They have identified themselves as a force to be reckoned with, and under the leadership of Coach Joe Stocking, they are sure to become a powerful Varsity team.

This year's varsity wrestling team consisted of many dedicated, hard-working athletes. These young men spent three hours every day conditioning with push-ups and running, and practicing to the demanding voice of their coach, Tim Barrett. The practice payed off as the team completely destroyed Northgate in pre-game and Salesian in regular league play. The new coach, with help from veteran wrestlers Eddie White, Dave Klapperich and Rob Forrester, built the young Spartans into a 88 hopeful. The 1986-'87 Varsity Basketball squad is an exciting team with lots of talent. They are able to combine their abilities along with great coaching to form a very successful team. Many people felt the team would fail miserably (you know who you are). But the team and the dedicated coaching staff never had a doubt about having a great season.

During the summer, led by seniors Jon Barry, Eric Dinaburg, and Kevin Francis, the team went 18-0 in the D.V.C. summer league. From there, their achievements were unprecedented.

eat deal of the team's success is due to their extensive training program. summer league ended in mid-August, the team went back to school later the same month. In approximately the second week of school, they started lifting weights, running on the track, and playing scrimmage games. This Spartan dedication didn't stop until their season concluded in early March. All this hard work is what makes the De La Salle basketball program the best in the Bay Area.

The 1986-87 Freshman Basketball team was a team to be reckoned with. They opened with an impressive undefeated pre-season record of 11-0. The inspired coaching of Al Hansen and Mike Rittenhouse were a tremendous example of our De La Salle Basketball program. With the help of Gary Stepan and the other DLS coaches we managed to grow and mature as both basketball players and young men.

As young Spartans, we showed dedication and hard work. Our relentless attempts to win kept us from breaking down under the incredible pressure of close games. In the future, we hope that our freshmen will help us contribute to the JV and Varsity teams.

After moving from the Catholic Athletic League to the Golden Bay Athletic League, the Spartan Soccer team has continued its excellence. The Spartans swept through their opponents to a league title. In doing so, DLS has found a rival in Berkeley High.

Leading the offense this year was Vytas Ankaitas, a four year veteran. The infield did it all for the Spartans. They scored and assisted many goals in this year's quest for the North Coast title. The defense was sometimes referred to as the "no goal patrol." That speaks for itself. With all of the skill and teamwork, the GBAL seems to be ours for the taking.

The JV Soccer team had an extremely successful season; they won the league. In pre-season they lost only once to Cal High. In regular league play they went undefeated. The last two games were against Bishop O'Dowd, with whom they were tied for first. The first of those two games ended in a tie. The final game of the season would decide the league championship. They won with the help of halfbacks Dennis Brien, Todd Scheid, and John Giffins, not to mention an excellent defensive play by Mike Corritone.

None of this would have been possible without the team's tremendous dedication and long hours of practice. Without that they would have just faded into the background with the rest of the average teams. It just goes to show you, when the Spartans set their eyes upon a goal, they'll do everything they can to get it.

There is a great deal of pressure for a Varsity team as C.A.L. champions. It is however, extremely difficult for a team to enter the new G.B.A.L. league and face new and unfamilar teams in addition to the expectrations of the fans. This is the challenge the 1987 Varsity Baseball team took on.

Predominately Seniors, the '87 Varsity team was experienced and dedicated. With the winning combination of experience, dedication, and hard work, the team looked forward to another outstanding season.

One step up from the hordes of eager freshmen, the Junior Varsity Baseball players feel that they have indeed achieved much. However, they knew they were in for another challenging, tough year as they refined the fundamentals taught to them freshman year. They improved the rudimentary techniques, and began incorporating this knowledge to understand the finer points of the game, and the more sophisticated theories involved in the game. They used what they had learned towards improving their game still further, getting one step up higher on the ladder on their way to the ultimate goal: Varsity Baseball and beyond. The beyond is not known us at this time, but there is little doubt that the knowledge they have gained will provide a useful and necessary foundation to achieve it.

This is the time when the seeds are being planted. The seeds represent the growth potential in this team, and the growth process can be easily seen as we watch these young men hard at work on the field. We know that somewhere, there are letter jackets with the names of this growing team on them. We look forward to seeing them play next year, and earn the privilege of wearing the prized letter jacket, symbol of their achievement. We wish them luck, and wait for that fated day with a calm confidence.

New faces hoping to one day become Varsity stars flocked to the field to exhibit their skills to the watchful eyes of the coaches. Everyone watched and waited anxiously to see who made it and who did not. The few who were fortunate and skilled enough to be chosen beamed with pride and continued their quest for excellence by coming out to the field to practice day after day, week after week. Anticipation and awe went through the minds of these young men as they donned their De La Salle uniforms for the first time. They felt an extra something special as they laced their cleats, pulled on their socks, and hit the diamond.

The Freshman baseball team did all this and more in the hopes of one day achieving the status of a Varsity player. But for this year, they worked out the fundamentals of being a De La Salle player, with their own worries, hopes, and beliefs. These freshman worked towards the goal of a winning season, playing the game well, and learning the value of teamwork and dedication. It wasn't always fun, it wasn't always easy, but the end result were indeed something to be proud of.

Last year the Spartan Track and Field team had a banner year, winning North Coast and being represented at the State Meet.

This year under the expert guidance of Lamar Anderson, the Spartans were again a force to be dealt with seriously. There were two important factors in this year's success. One was the coaching of Mr. Anderson. The other was the experience of Jeff Johnson, an assistant coach for many years, as well as his own talent for the field events. He was honored innumerable times during his scholastic career.

With the talent, the coaching, and the experience, we had all the makings of another banner year.

Visions of Olympic glory perhaps flash through the minds of the Junior Varsity track team as they take the field to begin a workout under a new coach. Lamar Anderson led this young team through a year of stretching, running, and weights, and no one can deny that they gave their all to become the best athletes they could possibly be. They conquered challenges in ways they never dreamed of. The spirit of the team kept them going when the road seemed to have no end, and the practice seemed to drag on forever. But when meet day came, all that had been taught to them came together into talent, which in turn led to success as had never been perceived. The thrill of victory and the agony of defeat were both present this year, but the spirit of living and going on to the next challenge never died. The Junior Varsity team can feel confident that they pulled together to make a success out of the team that is overlooked when the Varsity squad hits the field.

That pretty much sums up this year's Varsity Golf team. But it didn't start that way. The team lost about half of its members to graduation. But two of the team's strongest members, Mike Beauchamp and Joel Slavonia, led the team in their tradition of excellence.

The Varsity Golf team has never dominated, but that's not what the team strives for (a lot of wins helps, though). The team works to do their best in practice and competition, as well as to enjoy the sport of golf together.

Bob Sansoe, although new to De La Salle, took little time to establish himself as JV Golf coach. The new people on the team, Coach Sansoe believes, are one of the team's strengths. The sheer number who tried out is, in itself, something to be proud of. This new squad faced a variety of adversaries from both sides of the Bay, be it on our home course at Boundary Oaks or another club closer to the opponent school.

"The purpose of our program," says Mr. Sansoe, "is to develop skills of beginning and intermediate golfers into Varsity players." All those who participated in this program can vouch for his skill in doing this, as well as his valuable ability to lighten things up with a quick joke. Motivation is the key here. If you want to improve your golf skills, Bob Sansoe and the JV Golf team await you.

The De La Salle Tennis program fared extremely well in their recent season. Many veterans and several other state ranked players complimented the younger players to create a strong and promising team. The new league, which this year's team entered, promised to be a challenge. With their excellent guidance from coach Robin Bradford, the team will, undoubtedly continue its powerful domination for years to come.

Though tennis is commonly thought of as an individual sport, the Spartans showed true support for one another, and existed, in every sense of the word, as a team.

Even though this year's swimming team had few returning members, they managed to pull off another successful year. The new, emerging stars of this year will become names of great renown in the future. The number of new people emerging from JV swimming made for a team of new faces, but nevertheless, the talent was there to its fullest extent.

Coach Perry Kelly led the team through some rigorous practices and a tough schedule. Throughout the season, each team member excelled to achieve his fullest potential. Many of the team members qualified for North Coast Section championships, with all of them placing high against some of the best teams in the area.

A veteran coaching staff and a dedicated, hardworking group of young men proved to be the winning combination for this year's Swimming and Diving Team. Congratulations to all who took part in this year's program.

The disciplined program of Junior Varsity Swimming is a far cry from the lighthearted days of childhood, splashing in the pool, which perhaps began the love of swimming in this team. Now, they are strong, well-coached, full of potential, and on the move. There is little doubt that Varsity is an excellent team, but JV is not one to be overlooked. They, too, are a dominant force in their own right. Their contribution to the swimming program, and the building of a new team for which they are responsible is undeniably valuable.

There is much good to be said for their quest to better their times, improve their endurance, strengthen their muscles, and perpetuate the philosophy of good sportsmanship. They, too, will gain recognition one day when we least expect it. When the '87 Varsity Swimming team is a thing of the past, the JV swimmers will become the new Varsity intimidators, to continue the tradition of excellence we have maintained, and to become the respected, regimented team that is a force not to be taken lightly. We speak words of encouragement and praise when we talk about the up-and-coming champions that make up JV swimming.

The Freshman year can be the best year you've ever had, and the worst at the same time. It's the year when the Mighty Eighth Graders become the lowly Frosh. For some, it's the year they spent having Mom drop them off around the corner, and for some it's the year they start driving. The Frosh get their first taste of DLS at orientation where they are forced to spin on golf clubs until they're too dizzy to stand up. But soon they're integrated into the rest of the student body. When it's time for graduation, those four years, which seemed like they'd be a lifetime, seem like the fast-blur of a dreamscape.

"Contusion of the quadri . . . what?!"

the heat is on

I look so tired cause I don't get much sleep
I've got too many committments that are too hard to keep
And I try to be rational
And I try to be wise . . .
And I know what all of my friends say
There's a danger in wanting too much.

The road to a successful yearbook is not a glorified one. The "team" does not appear on the front page of your newspaper, nor do people come to watch us, although we have had many unexpected visitors (Toads, Tam, Teach). The little darkroom next to the Campus Ministry office, commonly known as the Lounge, became home for us as we spent many hours creating chaos. This was accomplished only by the help of the Jolt Cola Company, stock in No-Doz, a large trash can, loud music, a stainless steel sink, take out pizza and a strong tolerance for insanity. Yearbook was not only a lot of hard work though, we will never forget the good times: all night seances, Family Feud, posing for pictures without any film, feeding raccoons 1½ pounds of M&Ms just to take their picture (this time with film), and the infamous quotes of the day. We would like to take this time to thank: (the generic body copy) our fearless moderator Nate, Larry Brooks, Merrill Parker and Ray St. Germain. THANKS! Daniel Thomas Shepherd
1961-1986

Dan Shepherd was born December 19, 1961, the son of Mary and Thomas Shepherd, brother to Shannon and Tim Shepherd.

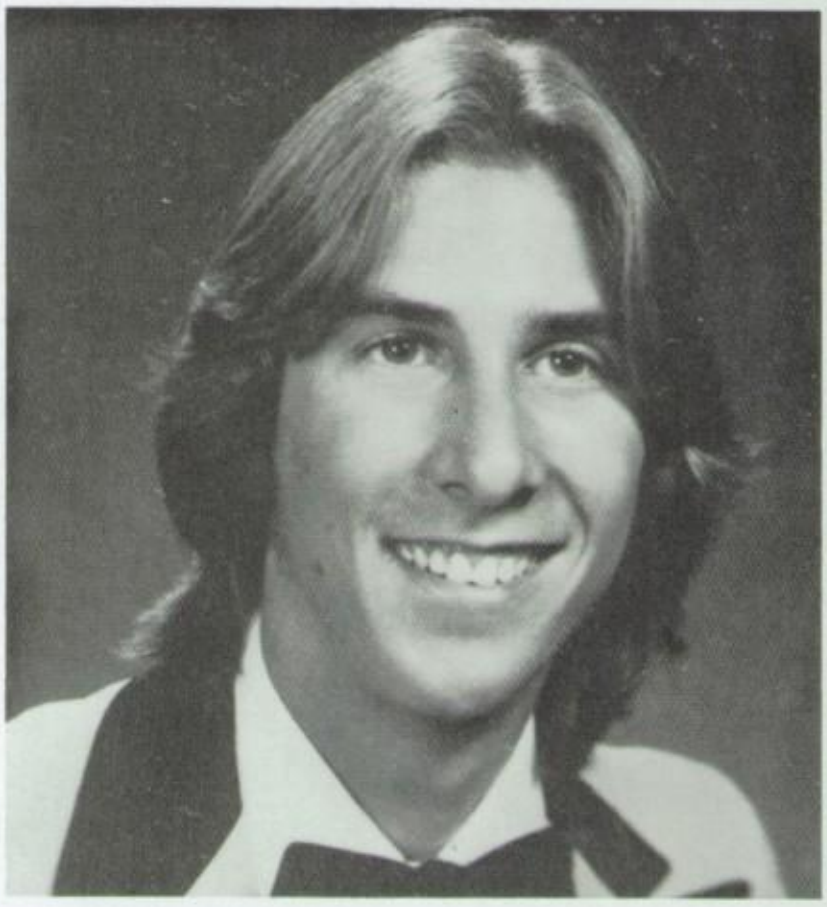
A lifetime resident of Concord, he attended Most Precious Blood Elementary School and was a 1980 graduate of De La Salle High School.

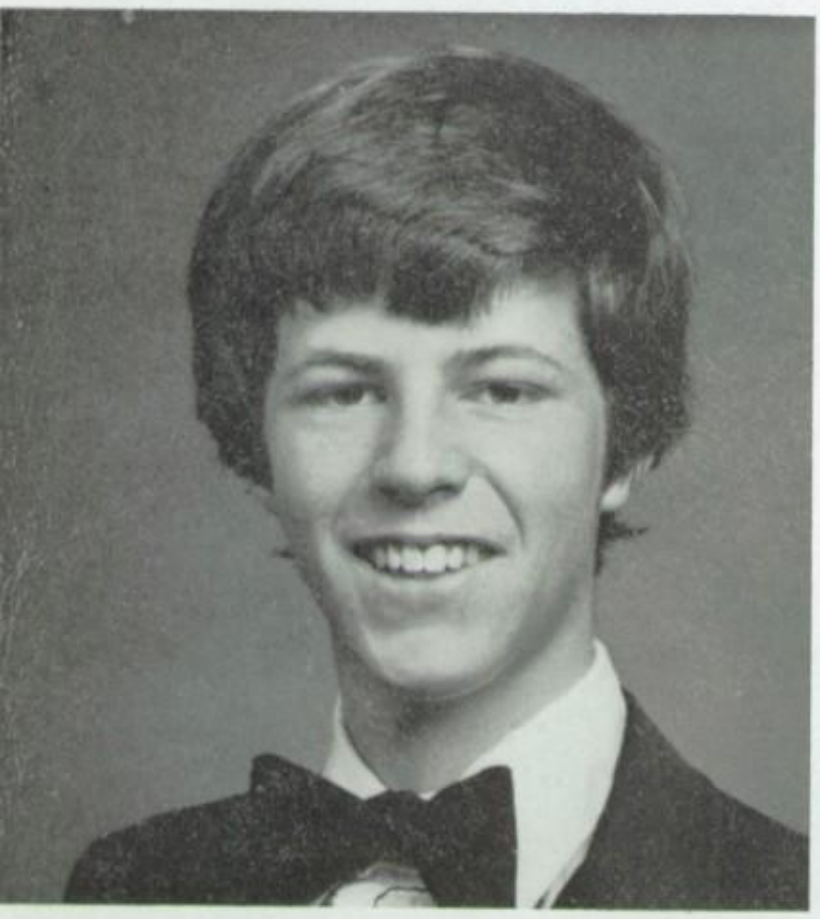
Dan was popular and athletic. During his grade school years, he participated in track and CYO basketball. He played yearly in the Basketball Marathon, even as an alumnus. He had many friends and was always willing to give of himself to help friends and family in need. Anytime the telephone rang, day or night, Dan was ready to be there for someone. He was just as dependable for his family. He was a special person.

He was a painter-taper by trade, but was really a Jack-of-all-Trades. No project was too difficult for the Handyman, Dan Shepherd.

Dan had many interests and was an outdoorsman. He enjoyed fishing, his customized four wheel truck, his Sanger ski boat, and his Jet Ski.

He died on August 16, 1986, doing what he liked best, waterskiing with his family and friends. Although we will miss him, we know he is with God and we will remember his life and the way he lived it.





James Francis Dooher
March 24, 1964-June 22, 1986

Jim was born in Oakland, California March 24, 1964. He attended Santa Maria and St. Perpetua grammar schools. He was accepted into DLS High School in 1978 and graduated with honors in June 1982. He attended UC Davis from September 1982 until his death on June 22, 1986. Jim was a geology major and planned to pursue a masters in geophysics.

Jim was a very organized person. He was very energetic in the pursuit of his goals and his hobbies, which complemented each other. From his early childhood, he was interested in and followed the space program. During his junior and senior years at DLS he was a member of the Student Space Biology Research Program at NASA Ames Research Center- with engineers and attended lectures one day a week during the school year. Through his interest in the Space Program he had VIP invitational passes to view the Space Shuttle launches and landings.

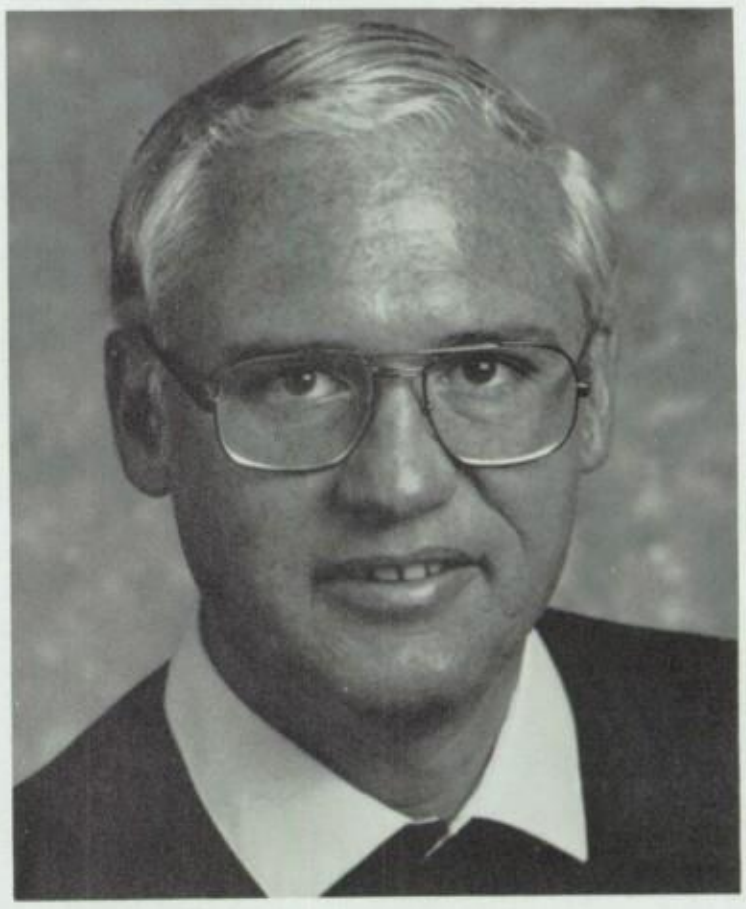
By the age of 17 Jim had earned his private pilot's license. He loved to fly and had logged more than 150 hours of flight time.

Jim's other great love was astronomy. As a TA at UC Davis, he led discussion sections in astronomy. He also lectured and held regular public viewings at the UC Davis Observatory. He was the recipient of a grant from the University of California to produce a slide show for undergraduate education. Jim was an active member of the UCD Astronomy Club and held the office of president during his senior year.

Jim had many other interests; he was an expert photographer and could process and develop either black-and-white or colored photographs. He enjoyed the arts, played the guitar and enjoyed classical and modern music. He was also vice president of the Geology Club at UC Davis. He loved life and never allowed himself to become bored.

In the fall of '85 he participated in a geophysical experiment to the Equator aboard the R/V Thomas Washington with the Scripps Institution of Oceanography to plot seismic movements there. This was a 6500 mile ocean trip that lasted four weeks.

Jim left us a treasure of memories, but perhaps the greatest treasure of all was the closing paragraph of a letter in which he wrote "... I believe that love has incredibly long arms that stretch and embrace over great distances, therefore, you are with me, and I am with you ... and this great truth makes me very happy."



Brother Tom Cannon's dedication to the education of hundreds of De La Salle students and graduates dates back to his arrival in Concord in September 1967. As a teacher and moderator, he was known for his availability to students, parents, and colleagues. His talents in the area of audio-visual equipment and programs provided an invaluable service to both instructional and co-curricular activities.

Although Brother Tom was born on Staten Island, New York in August 1945, he always considered Chicago his home. It was there that he began school and developed some of the closest relationships of his life. As a child, he moved with his family to Sacramento, California where he attended a local Catholic grammar school and one year of high school at Christian Brothers. At the age of 15, he decided to give the Brothers' life a closer look by moving to Mont La Salle in Napa. For the next three years, he studied with other young men who were considering the Brothers' life and in August 1963, he became a Brother. Until his assignment to De La Salle in 1967, he was a student. During the greater part of these years he lived at St. Mary's College in Moraga.

The affection Brother Tom had for his students and the generosity with which he contributed to the development of the new De La Salle High School are well remembered by his brothers and the alumni. He was particularly fond of working with parents in the Athletic Association. Brother Norman Cook, founding principal of De La Salle and Provincial for the Brothers on the West Coast, summed up the gratitude and affection we all feel for Brother Tom in a eulogy delivered at his funeral Mass on June 5, 1985:

"As a member of the De La Salle faculty, Brother Thomas was appreciated for his ever friendly and helpful presence and its gentle influence, experienced by those of all ages, who benefited from the apostolic ministry he rendered in their behalf. Brother Thomas' twenty-two years of service as a Christian Brother will not be forgotten by those who loved him: his confreres, his family, his students and their parents, the alumni and their parents."

Carlos A. Ruiz was born in Martinez, CA on August 30, 1967. He was baptized at the Church of the Good Shepherd. He lived in Pittsburg, CA with his parents, five brothers, and two sisters. During his second year of school, he made his First Holy Communion at St. Peter Martyr Church. In May of last year, he made his Confirmation and it was a happy day.

At age four, he started his education at Martin Luther King Preschool. He then completed his first and second years of primary school at Marina School, from which he was transferred to the school of St. Peter Martyr and was put back into second grade because "He was too short in stature." After he graduated from eighth grade, he was accepted into De La Salle, where he attended through his junior year.

Carlos valued friendships very highly. This was exemplified by his constant search to find ways to please everyone. An example of this is when it came time to pray the Rosary, everyone came up with excuses. Carlos, however, would pray just to please his parents, and please them he did in many other small ways. He was more than an obedient young man to his parents.

Carlos always said that if ever he were to die, he would like his body parts to anyone who needed them. Carlos died in a motorcycle accident with a childhood friend in June of 1986. A month later, his parents received a letter that said that his eyes were used for a young girl and his bones were used for a bone marrow transplant. Carlos is missed by his family, his friends, and by the entire De La Salle community.

IS IT LIVE?

ADS

I am standing upon the seashore. A ship at my side spreads her white sails to the morning breeze and starts for the blue ocean. She is an object of beauty and strength and I stand and watch her until at length she hangs like a speck of white cloud — just where the sea and sky come down to mingle with each other. Then someone at my side says, "There! She's gone!" Gone where? Gone from my sight — that is all. She is just as large in mast and hull and spar as she was when she left my side and just as able to bear her load of living freight to the place of destination. Her diminished size is in me, not in her, and just at the moment when someone at my side says, "There! She's gone," there are other eyes watching her coming and other vocies ready to take up the glad shout - - "Here she comes! Welcome Home!"

A lot of hard work, committment, late nights (turning into early mornings!), lots of coffee, frustrations, and good friends, is what yearbook is all about. Although the actual production only takes three-fourths of the year, it seems like it's been five since the first deadline (I've grown to hate that word very, very much). Yearbook has taught me very much: how to work with other people, how to tolerate some, and how to better myself. And I keep asking myself, "why am I doing this!?" (as I pull my hair out.) In fact, . . . I don't know. Maybe it's like I told Mrs. Koch, "You've got to find other ways to express yourself, 'cause writing doesn't quite cut it for me." Well, here it is in it's full glory, I hope you like it: DLS LIVE!

Carlos Gonzalez

Back in August, I found out that the Spartan Yearbook was going to be getting a new moderator — Nate Crawford, There were very few veterans returning to the 1986-87 staff, and most of the ones who were had little or no experience in layout and design. With that in mind, Carlos and I thought we would be the perfect pair for the positions of Editors-in-Chief. Seven months later we had a finished product — one that over 100 students, staff and others, a moderator, and a representative created. We call it DLS LIVE! After many arguments, late evening and early morning darkroom sessions, and driving to Visalia, CA. to deliver our last deadline one hour before it was due, we give you the 1986-87 yearbook. Let me take this final moment to thank the following people for all their help, support, and ideas throughout the year: Carlos, Julie, Drew, Steve, Nate, Brian, Joe, Ray, Merrill, Bill, and last but not least, Dr. Juana. Thanks for everything. You are all great.
